Employment as a polling clerk for SRC elections

STATEMENT OF POLITICAL NEUTRALITY

The Returning Officer is responsible for providing the SRC of the University of Technology, Sydney with an independent electoral service. Some examples of activities that could be interpreted as conflicting with political neutrality, and which may preclude employment by the Returning Officer, include:

- : campaigning for an on campus political group/team or candidate – e.g. media statements, handing out how-to-vote material that specifically identifies you as a member of that political group/team, attributable statements on the Internet;
- : standing as a candidate at on campus elections;
- : publishing material on a Facebook page or otherwise on social media which makes public comments that clearly identifies you as supporting a particular group/team or candidate;
- : an association or relationship with a candidate or a group/team which may prevent you from carrying out the duties of a poll clerk in a fair and unbiased manner.

I have read the Political Neutrality statement and am eligible to be considered for employment   YES   NO
